SCHOOLS NEEDS UP FOR DISCUSSION

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO GIVE BANQUET FEB. 26.

DIRECTORS WILL SPEAK

L. C. Cook and E. E. Williams of School Board to Explain Present Situation and Inadequate Room

The banquet of the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of giving the city school board an opportunity to lay the needs and problems of the schools before the public, will be held at the First Christian church Thursday night, Feb. 26. The date was set at the regular meeting of the board of directors held last night.

L. C. Cook and E. E. Williams, members of the school board, will explain the condition of the school and the situation now confronting the board to make provision for the increased enrollment. Superintendent J. M. McDonald and Prof. L. E. Zeigler of the school faculty, will explain the state of the present school building and the imperative need of more room to accomodate the present number of students and adequately provide for future years should the enrollment continue to increase as it has in the past. They will also explain the new course of vocational instruction provided free by the government under the Smith-Hughes act, which pays the salary of a vocational agricultural instructor for the entire year and half the salary of a domestic science teacher. Under the present plan of expansion for the school, the present girls gymnasium quarters will be used as labratory rooms and for a model kitchen dining room and bed room, where girls will be instructed in their care. At present the high school provides for a one year course in domestic science and the Smith-Hughes system provides for a two year course and should it be installed, room must be made for these students.

At the present time there is no agricultural course in the school and no room for the classes, should it be established.

The banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock by the women of the Christian church.

ONLY ONE WAY TO GET FUND TO PAY TEACHERS MORE

Attorney General McAllister Says Boards Must Transfer Money.

The raising of funds to increase the salaries of school teachers is up to the local communities, according to word brought back from Jefferson City where a meeting of 250 school superintendents and 200 school board members were addressed by Attorney General McAllister.

Mr. McAllister suggested that until the constitution has been changed to permit of changes in the school levies, the only way more funds for teachers pay can be raised would be for each community to vote a special levy for buildings and repairs, then transfer that to the incidental fund and from there transfer it to the teachers fund.

The attorney general did not favor raising the assessed valuation of all property in the state to obtain additional funds fo rteachers. He said that as long as he was a member of the State Board of Equalization the tax valuation will not be raised until the city of St. Louis changes its plan of assessment. He stated that in all the big city only 16 million dollars worth of money, notes and bonds were reported to the tax assessor.—Kirksville Express.

COURT HEARING ROAD PETITIONS

PICKERING AND HOPKINS SPECIAL DISTRICTS UP TODAY.

MANY IN ATTENDANCE

No Action had been taken by the Court at Press Time This Afternoon—Appointments Made.

The hearing on the petitions for special road districts, one south of Pickering to the township line between Union and Polk, and the other one south of Hopkins to Pickering, was before the county court this afternoon and at press time this afternoon no action had been taken. No remonstrance petitions were filed against either project but a third petition for a special road district between the Iowa line and Maryville and using the road as outlined by the state highway department has been filed but no action can be taken before the May term, as this petition was filed too late for any action at this term.

The supporters of all of these districts were in attendance at the meeting this afternoon. H. D. Judson of St. Joseph, who is connected with the state highway department, is also here in the interest of the road selected by the state highway department.

It is expected that the court will defer action on these petitions until the May term when all of three of them will be presented at the same time.

The court in their meeting this afternoon appointed N. H. Key as janitor at the court house at a salary of $65 a month. His appointment is only for a month. George S. Miller, county surveyor was selected as county highway engineer at a salary of $25 per month, and when he is used more by the court to be paid more. M. A. Peery was appointed title examiner again.

HOW TO OBTAIN HIGHER PRICES FOR MISSOURI HIDES

Careful Handling in Skinning and Curing Will Insure Better Leather and Better Price.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Careful skinning and handling of hides will bring greater returns to Missouri farmers according to a statement made here today by J. R. Cavanagh of the State and Federal Bureau of Markets. Greatest losses in hide values are caused by too liberal use of the knife, the leaving of meat, sinews and dewelaws attached to the flesh side of the hide, and improper salting or curing.

Manure and other dirt should be removed from animals before killing, and slits around the head, belly and legs should be as few as possible and so arranged as to permit removal of the hide with the greatest possible unbroken surface. Unnecessary cuts such as slitting through tails and shanks, as well as about the head, give a poor potter nto the hide and result in loss of leather.

Care in the use of the skinning knife is especially necessary. Hides should be removed as much as possible by pulling. Where the knife must be used, long sweeping strokes should be made and greatest care exercised to avoid scoring of the hide. The worst possible method of skinning is to use the knife in short, choppy strokes and more especially where blind strokes are taken without a definite point of cutting. Scored or cut hides are productive of inferior leather and are heavily discounted upon the markets. Further care is necessary in keeping the hide free from all cheek or other meat, of tailbones, and dewclaws. These should always be removed from hides before selling to local buyers or tying for shipment.

After removing the hide it should be placed away in a dark, cool place for 6 to 12 hours. Coarse salt should then be applied at the rate of a pound of salt to each pound of hide, taking care to work this in well around heavy parts and through creases or wrinkles. Hides should be kept away from water and never be permitted to freeze or dry out either before or after salting. Neat bundles may be made by folding flesh side in and tying with strong cord.

Hide dealers are particularly severe in docking dragged or scored hides, hides upon which tailbones or meat have been left, or hides which show indications of improper curing or of watering.

MORE MONEY TO TRAIN HOMEMAKERS.

Columbia.—"There is before the national congress a bill of interest to the women of Missouri," says Miss Louise Stanley, professor of home economics in the University of Missouri. "In 1917 a bill known as the Smith-Hughes bill was passed. It gave aid for vocational work in trade and industry and agriculture. Just before its final passage the General Federation of Women's Clubs protested against the omission from the bill of so important a vocation as home-making. They claimed that, as at some time in their lives 90 per cent of the women in the nation were engaged in home-making, provision should be made in the bill for such training. The pressure brought to bear was so great that home economics was finally added, but as a part of trades and industries, and only a maximum of 20 per cent of the fund allowed for trade and industry could be used for home economics education.

"This provision has been inadequate financially, and the development of the work has been hampered also by the fact that the work has had to be developed from the point of view of trades and industry.

"In order to better the situation, the home economics division of the Federated Club and the American Home Economics Association have urged the introduction of an amendment to the original Smith-Hughes bill. In this amendment home economics is placed on the same financial basis as agriculture and trades and industry.

"Under the bill as it now stands, Missouri receives only $6,614.99 of federal money for vocational home economics for 1919-20, while trades and industry receive $26,459.98, and agriculture $38,390.29. The maximum amount which will be available to the state for home economics as the bill now stands will be $21,044.94. If the new bill passes, the maximum amount will be $117,911.84.

"This bill, which has been introduced by Representative Fess of Ohio, is one in which all the women of Missour should be interested. It is a bill proposed by the women for better provision for training for home-making. Will you do your part to secure the passage of this bill by writing your senators and representatives urging the passage of this bill before July 1, so this money will be available for the schools next year?

"This year there are only thirty-four schools in the state receiving aid under this act. The additional money available next year as the act now stands will scarcely take care of the development of the schools now established. More money must be available if additional schools are to be helped."

THE PRESIDENT'S "13" STILL FOLLOWS HIM.

President Wilson has always maintained that 13 was his lucky number.

Mock Trial a Success.

The mock trial given by the Parnell Debating society in the opera house at Parnell, last Friday evening was a success in every respect. Notwithstanding the weather there was a fair attendance at the trial and all expressed themselves well pleased wit hthe program as carried out in the noted Breach of Promise suit in which Miss Dotty Perkins in the person of Cecil Brown was suing Dennis Casey better known as Chester Winemiller for $50,000 damages. Judge Frank Auer characterized as a typical Irish justice was on the bench and performed his duties in a manner that would have made a member of the supreme court envious. Virgil Spoonemore as the clerk performed his duties perfectly. Both Mr. Skin, represented as Fred Messbarger and Mr. Takethecoin in the person of Harley E. Nigh, acting as the council for the plaintiff and the defendant showed great legal talent and their plea to the jury was very touchins. Witnesses who testified were Ruben Louder as Frank Welch; Cecil Hall as I. C. Uno; Merlin Millikan as Mr. Gunn; and Claw Hammer as Ralph William Boedeker as L. M. White, the New. The jury was well chosen and negro; Michael Mulchay in the per consisted of R. C. Rhodes as Ole Olson son of Lloyd May; Mr. Hearsay the the Sweed; Chas. Hatman as Izy deaf man represented by Ernest Yes Marks the Jew; William Florea as ter; Viron E. Bird as Jonathon Jd. Fritz Bumblesburgerhorfendorfenstein. Kins the rube from Skowhegan, Maine; Cecil Huff as the Kid and Burl Harris as Mr. Goodclothes. All acted their part fine and all seemed pleased with the verdict of guilty and sentence both defendant and plaintiff to be hung.

ADRIATIC COMMUNICATION AN INQUIRY, NOT THREAT.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The president's communication to the allied powers on the Adriatic question was not a threat but an inquiry, according to the announcement made by the state department today. The cablegram addressed to the council of premiers inquired whether the three intended taking action without consulting the United States with the expectancy that America would abide by such action, it was stated.

THREE ATTRIBUTES AMERICAN WOMEN NEED MOST.

Chicago.Thrift, caution and good sense are the three attributes needed most by the women of America.

This was the declaration here of David R. Forgan, prominent financier, addressing the leaders of the women's division of the Federal Securities Corporation.

"Never plunge into investment," advised Mr. Forgan, "without the advice of some man who knows. After you have had his advice go to another of equal good judgment. Compare the two. If they jibe, it's pretty safe to go ahead."

Women should have knowledge of the handling of money in all its branches, Mr. Forgan declared, and urged that they study financial conditions as a stepping stone to success.

"Spend prudently, save systematically and invest wisely," he advised.

WOMEN RED CROSS WORKERS OUT OF SIBERIA

America Retaining Only Sufficient Staff to Distribute Relief Supplies on Hand.

Washington.—Nearly all of the women workers attached to the American Red Cross Commission to Siberia are safely out of that country, according to a cablegram reaching national headquarters of the Red Cross from Vladivostok. The message said that 111 women and 20 men sailed Feb. 6, on the transport Great Northern, direct for San Francisco. The only women remaining include a few Vladivostok workers and a group now en route from Harbin with Consul General Harris.

"We are retaining sufficient staff for distribution of the relief supplies on hand," said the cablegram, which was signed by Lieut. Col. Rudolph P. Tousley, head of the commission. "Four American Red Cross trains bringing personnel from the west have now arrived without any incident of hostility of effort to hold our people."

The message added that no fear is entertained for the four American Red Cross men reported held captive by the Bolsheviki near Krasnoyarsk.

LEAGUE MUST ADMIT WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

WOMEN WILL TAKE ACTION UNLESS MOVEMENT IS HEADED.

MANY DENY EQUAL RIGHTS

All Energy of Woman's Suffrage Alliance Devoted to Seeing These Nations Changed.

London.—"The League of Nations has got to fully recognize the Woman Suffrage movement in every way of the women of the world will have to take drastic and telling action."

This was the declaration made by Miss Chrystal Macmillan, first recording secretary of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, on her return from Spain, where she has been for the purpose of arranging for the international convention of the organization next May. This will be the first international convention held since a year before the world war, and in the meantime many changes have occurred, several countries having granted full or partial suffrage to both sexes.

"In spite of the fact that many of the countries of the world have granted equal rights to women," continued Miss Macmillan, "it is a fact that there are many so-called intelligent nations which deny equal rights to us. Spain, Italy and France in this hemisphere and all the South American nations in the Western world refuse to recognize the right of women to have an equal decision with the men in vital matters of social or political interest. This is going to be altered and all the energies of the Women Suffrage Alliance are going to be devoted to seeing that these nations, together with China and Japan, give us what we should have.

"After seven years the International Alliance is going to hold its full convention in Madrid from May 2 to May 8, inclusive. This meeting, held at so critical a period of the women's movement and the first after so many years of separation, is of supreme importance. Since our last convention, held at Budapest in 1913, thirteen new countries have given the suffrage to women, but many still remain in darkness.

"There are also the women of the East, for many of whom the work of emancipation has hardly begun. Even in the countries which have granted suffrage for women there is much to be done, for in no country does there exist an equal moral standard, full economic opportunities or equality in marriage relations. This must be altered and we must—and will—insist on our rights in these matters.

"The League of Nations must incorporate in its rules such amendments of orders required by the free women of the world. The time has come at last when we can demand our rights and full recognition, and only by concerted action can we obtain what we desire.

"Delegates to the convention will be present from all over the world. India will send a strong and representative delegation, and there will also be representatives from China and Japan. We believe that the convention will have a marked effect on the progress of the world and that the results of our deliberations will be studied by the various governments in the countries interested."

WINDOWS

Our eyes are the windows to our soul Incompetent people handling the shades are liable to pull them down wrong and they will never rise. Then we will have to grope in darkness the rest of our lives. When our eyesight begins to fail. Stop and think of this. Many people have gone blind by wearing cheap unfitted glasses. Thirty five per cent of the people are born with deficient eyes and no one has a normal eye above the age of 40. Good glasses, properly fitted is the best remedy in the world for eyesight. In doing farm work with a tractor it is not so much the saving of teams and labor, or the amount of different kinds of work you can do in a year, but of greatest importance is getting the work done quickly

JUST WHEN IT OUGHT TO BE DONE

Cletrac
TANK-TYPE TRACTOR

is the kind of tractor to do the farm work at the right time. It does not depend on dry hard ground, because the tank type—laying its own track—will run over soft, moist earth. It is easily handled—is not clumsy—and consequently will work faster than most tractors.

We have a CLETRAC on our floor that we can show you all about, and we want you to see it before it comes time for a tractor, so that we will be able to get yours if you decide to have one.

Letterheads Advertise the Farm.

Jefferson City.—Missouri farmers have been quick to appreciate the advertising value of attractive letter heads and individual stationery for the farm, says J. R. Cavanaugh of the State Marketing Bureau, as is shown by the large number of such letter heads as are received daily at our office.

Surely our breeders of pure bred live stock and of improved grains, or our producers of fancy honey, sorghum syrup or other farm products, can secure no better introduction to the prospective purchaser than that of fronted through a neat, descriptive letterhead.

Cuts are of greatest value in the making of an attractive head which will appeal in a suggestive way to the reader. Such silent appeals as these will make more sales than the most earnest of written or oral descriptions.

To be most effective, cuts should present the specialties of the farm operator. Lesser specialties can be mentioned in small type and in such a way as to not detract from the "big message" which the letter head is supposed to carry. General cuts, showing a large variety of objects or of farm products, have but little suggestive value, and it is this value which brings results. The same may be said of personal portraits as they do not have the power of convincing as to the value of your products as do the more tempting photographs of your herd leaders, of your selected seed corn, or of your apiaries from which comes the most delicate of all "spreads."

Mrs. M. H. Moffatt, who has been a guest at the home of her brothers, Oliver K. Bovard and Mrs. Bovard, left last night for her home in Kansas City.

Enemies of Peace.

How can we expect peace
When there are men and women in the world and they fall in love?
When motor car tires are made of rubber and there is glass in the road?
When telephone operators refuse to talk English?
When congress insists upon sending us garden seeds that will not come up?
When strike-on-the-box matches refuse to strike?
When the kids leave the trains of gave their age as thirty one years.

When there are no more wars for the old men to stumble over?
When the women are all trying to wear the latest bridge prizes?
When the butcher weighs his hand with the steak?
When married couples will insist on picking the wall paper together?
When everybody has relatives?
